What Are The Available Options For Golf Gadgets?

There are different types of Golf Gadgets, and all include similarities and differences. Most popular amongst the golfing community are wearables. These are usually GPS Golf Watches, and they have several different features, all used to take your game to the next level. Wearables are an incredibly popular type of Golf Gadgets, because they are readily accessible from your wrist. You may find a Rangefinder is more suitable though, as handheld devices help you measure distances on the golf course, to make a much more precise shot.

Which Notable Features Should You Consider?

Golf Gadgets all include a variety of features that you should look out for. Some features which we advise that you consider when buying a new GPS Watch are; screen resolution, pre-loaded availability of information over courses, and of course battery life. If you're also glued to your mobile device, smart notifications will capture your texts and phone calls.

Alternatively, a rangefinder's best features typically include; Hazard View, Water Resistance and Image Stabilisation.

Find The Best Gadget For Your Budget

Golf Gadgets typically range from £80 to almost £500 in price and usually at a more expensive price tag you benefit from additional features and luxury finishes, which enhance your game even further. But, even so, our more affordable devices are still effective. At the high-end, you will notice more pre-loaded courses are readily available and most of the wearables will have larger, colour screens which adjust to natural sunlight. They also boast more analytics which link up to a smartphone for a historical view on their accompanying app. At a higher price, you'll benefit from more accurate data when purchasing a handheld laser or GPS device, and some will come with pre-loaded distances or hazard warnings for specific course views.
